

NAVY VETERANS ASK PRODUCTION OF API WORKERS

Both Men Were Veterans of South Pacific, Public Is Invited Thursday Night

Keep the material coming, see that the fighting men get every ounce they need, API workers here were urged Thursday noon when two Navy men, both wearers of the Purple Heart, spoke to the first shift of 800 men and women on the lawn before the API plant.

One of the men was Melvin Dill, AOM 2-c, of Columbus, who has been in the Navy for two and a half years. The other was Ed Drennen, ACMM, of Cincinnati, who has served in the Navy for 19 and a half years.

Both men will appear again Thursday night at 10 P. M. to speak to a second shift of API workers. Donald Murdoch, plant manager, said anyone living in town was invited to hear the two men who made such an impression on the men and women who sat on the grass to hear them.

Bill told of his baby flatfoot, the Gambia Bay, which was sunk by a two way attack off Leyte. He described the shells which trapped him below decks. One exploded ten feet from him. "I've seen lots of men killed but I've never seen anything like that," Bill remarked as he told of the mangled bodies. He finally jumped 70 feet into the water—after putting another man with one hip shot away into a comparatively safe place.

Drennen was on the Hornet when it carried Doolittle's ships on the first bombing raid of Tokyo. He too was wounded and drifted in the water for hours before he was picked up. He wears three rows of ribbons under his Navy air corp ground crew insignia.

Dill, emphasizing that the Jap war would not be over in three months, told how he expected it to last two more years. "We haven't even fought as many Japs as we have taken German prisoners," he said.

J. T. Hively, manager of the plant here, introduced the two men who spoke from a flag-draped platform facing the lawn of the plant.

price regulations, even though we thought them unfair and unrealistic and destructive to morale and against the public interest," he declared.

The committee heard a number of appeals for price ceiling enforcement or increases in ceiling prices which would protect honest dealers.

At Minneapolis, George H. Toomey, member of the Board of Directors of the National Poultry, Butter and Egg Association, told the committee many concerns which were members of his organization had been in the poultry and egg business for generations. He said:

"We are witnessing a complete disruption of the industry to a point where it is impossible for most of us to obtain our fair share of the available poultry and eggs at ceiling prices. Many legitimate dealers have reached that point where they must go out of business and give way to that unscrupulous group which has entered the poultry picture since the beginning of the war."

The hearings showed that honest, patriotic farmers resent the situation. They do not want to see the legitimate dealer destroyed, because they know the latter will be needed as a market outlet after shortages disappear.

The farmer viewpoint was expressed in these words by J. H. Patterson of the California Farm Bureau:
"The majority of the poultrymen feel that the fancy prices of the black market involves them on more than one count—their cost records, the income tax returns. They conscientiously would rather have a reasonable ceiling and play fair. There is, however, another group that is keenly delighted with the present setup and do not want it changed."

wives and girl friends of the SS men. These dues were withheld from salaries. For this swindle they deducted 120 marks from my monthly salary of 1,500 marks. I had quite a number of rows with Himmler."

Goering: "He was a lazy bastard, a clown. He held the bag and could do as he pleased. I surely don't wish him anything good."

The general staff (Fuehrer's headquarters): "Keitel, Model, Buehler and Jodl and all the others had no combat experience. Jodl had never even led a company. Weichs and Woehler lacked likewise in courage to say something. One ought to beat up the whole bunch of 'em."

Hitler: "Knew even less than the rest. He allowed himself to be taken for a sucker by everyone."

Ernest Kaltenbrunner, No. 2 man of the Gestapo: "He really was a decent fellow who had to do a lot of things he didn't like to do."

The defense of Vienna (Dietrich was the defender of Vienna): "Of course I had orders to defend Vienna to the last. I could not go over to the enemy as I did not want to lose my head. I therefore defended the town. I sent in a division. Well, this division let itself be pushed out of the town again. I didn't hang the town commander either. That's the way to do it; one doesn't need to surrender."

About Russia: "A very intelligent people, good natured, easy to be led and also adapted in technical matters—and on top of that, those huge masses. They were poorly led in the beginning but they learned quickly. These peasants have a lot of brains and are very amenable. Moreover, their tanks were better. They were less complicated and easier to maneuver. Our tanks seemed to have been made by a watchmaker, much too complicated and sensitive."

'SUICIDAL DEFENSE' PLAN FOR JAPAN - LUZON FREED AFTER LONG CAMPAIGN

on six small islands in the northern Marianas and brought them under American domination with a single pistol shot, Pacific Fleet headquarters announced today.

It was purely a reconnoitering operation to locate more areas where crippled Superforts could crash land while limping back from raids on Japan. Reconnoitering troops left no holding force behind after discovering Japanese didn't have a garrison on any of the islands.

The operation was carried out by two platoons of Negro infantrymen.

Allied announcements ignored invasion reports but told of American divisions and Filipino guerrillas closing a twenty mile gap in Luzon Islands Cagayan Valley climaxing a campaign that overran the 200 mile valley in 28 days.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur described the battle for the valley and its surrounding mountain country as "one of the most savage and bitterly fought in American history." Junction in the valley, he said, virtually completed liberation of Luzon Island.

A fighting general met his fighting son today south of Aparri in a junction of American forces that wrested from the Japanese the rich Cagayan agricultural valley of northern Luzon.

"Well Dad, I beat you to Aparri after all," said Lt. Robert S. Beightler, Jr., as he met his father, Maj. Gen. Beightler half a mile north of the Parat River in the northern reaches of the valley.

The son had landed Sunday with a parachute battalion four miles south of Aparri, last northern Luzon port in enemy hands which earlier had been liberated by guerrillas.

Then his outfit moved south and today he met his father, commander of the 37th (Buckeye) division, which had fought 235 miles northward toward Aparri since May 31.

Japanese dead mounted to 113,593 compared with 15,178 American casualties, including 3,793 dead, 34 missing, 11,351 wounded.

The same disproportionate figures for sea and ground forces were announced in the Okinawa campaign—114,851 Japanese killed and captured; 46,319 Americans killed, wounded or missing. New American figures were exclusively naval—4,907 killed and missing, 4,824 wounded.

These included nearly 1,000 casualties on the carrier Franklin and 656 on the carrier Bunker Hill.

Damage to the destroyer Halsey Powell, 90 miles off southern Japan by a suicide plane March 20, was announced last night. She suffered 41 casualties and fought three days to escape sinking. She is undergoing repairs.

Of the 1,400 American ships involved in the Okinawa operation, 33 were sunk and 60 damaged.

On Okinawa Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell took over command of the U. S. Tenth Army. Reportedly invaded Kume Island is 50 miles closer to China, a familiar stamping ground of Stilwell.

Chinese troops reported they had captured part of the former U. S. air base at Luichow in southeast China, and a railway station in western Luichow.

Australian troops spreading up and down the west coast of Borneo captured the railway terminus of Beaufort, north of Brunel Bay, and occupied the oil river port of Kuala Belait to the south.

A Japanese news report said Balikpapan on the opposite coast was virtually destroyed in a 20-day air bombardment.

Tokyo reported 32 B-29s flew three midnight mine-laying missions over scattered spots of Japan's home waters.

Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek of China predicted it would take at least 18 months to beat Japan into submission while Rear Adm. Frederick C. Sherman, U. S. carrier task force commander, guessed it would take only six months to a year.

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Quite a lot of good folk are worried because the Allies haven't announced a detailed program covering every phase of the punishment and regeneration of Germany.

These critics may be right in insisting the I's be dotted and the T's be crossed, but there are exceptions to every rule—and this is one of them, as I see it. There certainly are great advantages in being able to handle the Germans under a very flexible arrangement at this juncture.

The point is we are dealing with a lot of tricky imponderables in working out this problem. The Big Four must proceed cautiously in making commitments lest they find their hands tied in uncomfortable situations.

Every day the Allies are discovering fresh and startling facts about Hitler's plans for conquering the world. His schemes exceeded anything he displayed in action. Letters and documents discovered in Berchtesgaden and other places are proving to be gold mines of information.

We have learned Hitler's method of handling his problem of keeping Turkey neutral. Spain's friendly relations with the Axis are becoming more clear. We are gleaming the inner thoughts of other countries during the war, too.

We may expect Allied research in connection with the trials of war criminals will provide us with further invaluable information regarding the ramifications of the Nazi activities, not only in Europe but in the western hemisphere. We shall learn more about Hitler's scheme of restoring Nazism's war potential by the creation of a politico-economic empire in the western hemisphere. We shall add to our list of who's who among the war-mongers.

One of the vital questions to be ironed out is the exact attitude of the German public towards the activities of Hitler the Hun. Are any of them repentant, or are they just sorry they lost the war and want another chance at conquering the world?

The Allies have to figure out just what disposition is to be made of the high-ranking professional German soldiers. It has just been decreed Prussian militarism shall be destroyed—but just how is this to be effected? General Jacob L. Devers, commander of the U. S. Sixth Army Corps, said in New York a few days ago:

"The (German) general staff has been destroyed, and for my part I would shoot those who remain."

That would be one mighty ef-

HENRY W. JONES DIES FOLLOWING YEAR'S ILLNESS

Funeral Service Probably Will Be Saturday With Burial At Milledgeville

Henry W. Jones, 53, who for nearly half a century was one of the county's most prominent political and business figures, died in the comparative quiet obscurity of the Smith Rest Home on South North Street late Wednesday afternoon.

Henry W. Jones

He had been in failing health for about a year and a half after suffering a paralytic stroke. And since then he was seen only infrequently on the streets and in places of business where in-fective way of disposing of them. But General Devers was expressing a personal view, and there's no indication that the Allied control has decided this issue.

Another indication that it pays to proceed methodically is seen in the report on Germany's power of recovery by U. S. Foreign Economic Administrator Leo T. Crowley. In a statement to the Senate military affairs committee he declared that despite the Allied bombing, many German industries could be started again quickly. He advocated that the Reich be deprived of every facility which might lend itself to war making.

All this isn't an argument against a concrete Allied program. However, it does give ample support to the idea of not committing ourselves to cut and dried plans until we are sure we want them.

mer years he was so familiar. He had lived at his old home, 609 - Columbus Avenue, until about two weeks ago when he moved to the rest home.

Born in a log cabin, a picture of which used to hang in his office on North Fayette Street, near Milledgeville, he came to Washington as the county's first sealer of weights and measures on appointment by A. E. Henkle when he was county auditor. That was the beginning of a career in politics that brought him election as sheriff for two terms and then county commissioner for two terms. Although he never lost interest in politics, he went into the investment business with his son Perrill not long after completing his second term as commissioner. He always was a staunch Republican and his political influence was felt here long after he had stepped out of public office. It was generally conceded that when he was active in politics Henry Jones had more friends who would follow his guidance than any other man in the community.

Besides Perrill, who is now chief of police at the Ralston Steel Car Co. plant in Columbus, he leaves two other sons, Edwin of Houston, Tex., and Fred, who lives here but commutes daily to Patterson Field near Dayton, and a granddaughter, Lauretta, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Jones.

Perrill Jones, who came from Columbus to join his brother Fred in arranging for the funeral, said services probably would be held Saturday at the Cox and Parrett Funeral Home but added the exact time would depend on the arrival of Edwin from Texas. Interment is to be in the family lot in the Milledgeville Cemetery.

CHARLES HOWSER UP FOR PAROLE JULY 30

Charles Howser, who was sent to the Ohio Penitentiary along with Richard Trenner, last year, for unarmed robbery, will be eligible for parole July 30, the same time his pal, Trenner, is scheduled for release on parole.

The two men were convicted of taking a third man into the country and robbing him, the driver pretending that he was being held up by his companion who had been riding in the rear of the automobile, without knowledge of the man who was to be robbed.

THREE DRY WELLS ARE ADDED TO LIST

Hillsboro Water Shortage Is Still Acute

The water shortage in Hillsboro is continuing, regardless of abnormal rainfall, and citizens have been warned not to sprinkle lawns, wash automobiles, or use water for other purposes that are not necessary.

During the past two months three new wells have been drilled in an effort to increase the supply, and all were failures. A fourth is to be drilled at another point in the area being tested by the drill.

Apparently the water table from which the town obtains its supply is continuing to drop, regardless of the large amount of rainfall in recent months, and the outlook is not too good at the present time.

An estimated 30 per cent of Canadian dwellings are still lit by kerosene or gasoline.

Are We Shortsighted?

From time to time in the past year there have been warnings of a growing shortage of students in the fields of science and technology, and of the serious long-range dangers that may be expected in consequence.

These warnings have been issued piecemeal by leaders in various scientific professions. Now comes a joint report by the American Council on Education and the National Research Council, covering the entire subject of this war-inflicted deficiency. And while the separate earlier warnings were disquieting, it must be said that the impact of the whole situation is greater than the sum of its parts.

The report indicates that if present enrollment rates in medical schools continue, there will be 19,000 fewer doctors for civilians until the war is over. It states that although an annual enrollment of 3,000 new dental students is estimated to be necessary for the country's needs, our dental colleges expect only 360 freshman this year.

In other fields the situation seems quite as alarming. The college enrollment of student engineers is 64 percent below the 1939-40 level; the enrollment in pharmacy is off 73 percent; in mining, 84 percent; in agriculture, 89 percent; and in forestry, 91 percent.

A long and total war such as this is tremendously depleting to a country's resources, whatever its military fortunes. The nearness of victory increases, rather than lessens, its demands and depletions.

Yet there is evidence that our military authorities have failed to recognize these obvious facts. Not only have the pleas of educators and scientists for an adequate nucleus of present and future replacements gone unheeded, but there have been conflicts with civilian government agencies over replacement materials for such basic war essentials as transportation farm machinery and heavy industrial equipment.

Russia, Britain, Canada and other Allies, the joint report points out, have not only maintained but in some instances increased their reserve of technical and scientific students. Our government has not done this. On the contrary, it has cut deferments sharply and increasingly curtailed college training under military auspices.

This policy seems short-sighted for the present as well as the future, since modern war can use almost all the scientific training needed for peace. And it will certainly increase the war's price if, after winning the war, we find ourselves with inadequate health protection, and an inadequate body of trained scientists to maintain and advance our domestic prosperity and our world position.

Some of that added price seems inevitable. Yet it is not too late for the military to moderate its apparent insistence upon throwing the country's entire reserve of potential scientists into the front line of Concentration, firmness and diligent effort should bring you success in life if today is your birthday, since you are highly talented. battle and thus jeopardizing the attainment of a victorious peace.

Misguided Loyalties

The fiery leader of a midwest foreign group complains that his city's schools have hired no teachers of his racial origin recently. He seems to think that in choosing a teacher the first question should be "What is your nationality?", and the individual hired or not according to the proportion of his or her racial group on the teaching staff as a whole. Better, he feels, to hire a poor teacher of the approved stock than a good one of another.

Such a notion needs only to be stated to be condemned. Probably this advocate of nationalism did not think his idea out that far. He was merely appealing to prejudice in the course of some political ax-grinding.

Yet there are more folks like him than is commonly supposed. Some people oppose teachers or public officials merely because they have come from out of town or belong to different political parties, even though the job has nothing to do with political differences.

All these notions err in putting some other loyalty ahead of the common good. A teacher should be chosen for superior teaching ability. No other consideration should have weight against that one.

A Japanese chef in Bound Brook, N. J., recently gave $15 to the public library as a memorial to a Jewish friend who had been killed on the Belgian front. This Japanese evidently possessed a talent for friendship, and public spirit as well. It is well to remember that this country has many other Japanese like him.

A neighbor has a long memory. He can actually remember when many people would smoke only one particular brand of cigarettes.

Washington at a Glance

By JACK STINETT

WASHINGTON — Your capital in wartime.

The return of five-star Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, wearing hero's laurels equalled by few if any military men in our history has produced one quiz question, the correct answer to which is almost invariably greeted with amazement or disbelief.

That is that less than four years ago, the leader of the armies which have carried out the greatest military feats of all time was "just another colonel" in the United States army, as completely unknown outside military circles as scores of others who wore "chickens" on the shoulders.

To Gen. George C. Marshall and President Roosevelt must go credit for recognizing that in that "just another colonel" they had "the man who," as the speechmakers say.

As Washington went about planning the biggest reception ever given one of its heroes, the question everybody was asking was: "What will be done with Eisenhower now?"

To send him back to Europe would be to waste abilities that still are sorely needed elsewhere. To send him to the Pacific might be to divide and disrupt a command and certainly would be a slap at the generals and admirals who consider the fight against Japan their own private war.

All the discussion here has given rise to one frequent rumor: that General Marshall might step down and let the man who was "just another colonel" four years ago take over as chief of staff.

The story persists here that President Truman's cabinet shake-ups aren't over.

There isn't a press and radio conference these days at which the President isn't asked if he has any announcement to make about plans for Secretary of State Edward R. Stettinius, Jr. Most of the time, the President draws out his stock answer: a good-natured, "No, but keep on asking."

In some congressional circles, the President's announcement that he would take James F. Byrnes to the Big Three meeting near Berlin merely strengthened the foregone conclusion on the Hill that Byrnes would be the next Secretary of State as soon as the San Francisco conference and the impending talks with Churchill and Stalin are over. A recent visit to the White House of Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes has given rise to the rumor that the "old curmudgeon," as he calls himself, also is slated for an exit.

If these two changes come, it would leave only Secretaries of the Treasury Morgenthau, of War Stimson, and of Navy Forrestal who served under President Roosevelt, a far greater housecleaning than any one anticipated when President Truman took office, although changes in Labor, Agriculture, the postmaster general and the attorney general were predicted in this column before the new administration was weeks old.

Sen. Elbert D. Thomas, of Utah, one of the most erudite members of Congress and a longtime internationalist, has just come out with a book called "The Four Fears."

Administering Penicillin

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

WHENEVER a new method of treatment is discovered and found to be worthwhile, efforts follow to make the treatment simpler and more effective.

This has happened in the case of the wonder-working drug, penicillin. When penicillin was first employed, in practically all instances it was used by injection into a vein. A method known as continuous drip was employed, which means that a solution containing the penicillin was allowed to flow into a vein slowly over a period of 24 hours or longer. Then, later on, the drug was given by injection into a vein every three or four hours, day and night. Still later, it was used by injecting it into the muscle, but such injections also had to be given at frequent intervals.

Shrinking Blood Vessels

Recently, Doctor William M. Parkins and his co-workers of the University of Pennsylvania have been using penicillin mixed with gelatin and a drug like ephedrine, which has the effect of shrinking the blood vessels. When this mixture is used, the penicillin is more slowly absorbed or taken up by the body, remains in the blood for a longer period of time, and the number of injections may be cut from eight a day to three a day. Of course, the continuous intravenous drip method is still widely used.

(Copyright, 1945, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Patients may take penicillin by swallowing it in the form of a pill or gelatin capsule instead of by injections. Recently a mixture of penicillin with cotton seed oil put into gelatin capsules, has been developed. The gelatin capsule protects the penicillin from the acid of the stomach. The stomach acid rapidly destroys penicillin. When the capsule of the penicillin gets into the intestine, it breaks open and the drug is absorbed into the blood from the small intestine. There are also wafers containing penicillin for treating sore throat and tonsillitis.

Capsule Method

Tests not only with animals, but also with human patients, showed the method of giving the penicillin in capsules is effective in keeping a sufficient amount of the drug in the blood for action against infections which may be present in the body.

It is true that more penicillin must be employed when it is given in this way, but since it is more easily administered and a less highly refined product is needed, this new method may entirely replace the injection form of treatment in the future. Of course, with the capsules, it is necessary to determine its exact effectiveness, but it would appear that it will not be long before penicillin may be used to a greater extent by administration through the mouth.

"SUCCESS"
When things go wrong, as they sometimes will,
When the road you're treading seems all uphill,
When the funds are low and the debts are high,

When care is pressing you down a bit,
Rest if you must—but don't you quit.

Life is queer, with its twists and turns,
As every one of us sometimes learns,
And many a failure has turned about
When he might have won had he stuck it out.

So don't give up, tho' the pace seems slow,
You may succeed with another blow.

Success is failure turned inside out—
The silver tint of the clouds of doubt,

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

UNDER THE line of supple poplars a lacy pattern of sunlight and shadow fell across the brown dirt road. Terry and Raff rode their horses in silence.

Leaving the cool protection of the estancia trees and coming out to open fields, the sun was hot on their backs. Stretching boundlessly to the west, the sea of wire grass and thistle rippled in the wind. The line of the distant horizon was unbroken except for a legion of windmills that marched like gray skeletons to meet the sky.

Several times, as they rode side by side, Raff threw a furtive glance toward Terry. He noticed that the laughter had gone out of her eyes. He noticed, too, how lovely she was in the sunlight. A bright yellow scarf around her head, wisps of copper hair glinting like polished gold where the scarf didn't cover. The even tan of her skin, the strong classic features.

"Why so serious?" he asked rather abruptly.

Terry turned to smile at him. "I'm sorry," she said. "I guess I was just enjoying the quiet."

"It couldn't be you're carrying the torch for someone?"

Terry's first impulse was anger. Suddenly she thought better of it. She tried to keep her voice even.

"You, of course," she smiled.

"You wouldn't be kidding me?"

Terry didn't answer right away and Raff looked at her seriously.

"You're pretty fond of Brooks," he said.

Terry could feel the flush of color rise in her face.

"Everyone is fond of him," she said fiercely. "Aren't you?"

"Best friend I have," Raff said. "But it's a little different. I'm not a woman."

Terry had a wild impulse to turn her horse around and streak back to the estancia. She realized then how obvious that would be. She might as well scream from the house tops that she was in love with Brooks Kimberly. She suddenly remembered the barrier she had promised to build in her heart. If she were back in New York it would be different. There everything was fair in love and war; here, when a man had given his promise to marry, it held the same finality as marriage itself. Again she made a silent vow: to put Brooks out of her mind forever. She pulled herself from her mood, tossed her head toward Raff and cried, "Race you to the next windmill!"

With that she dug the heels of her riding boots into the horse's flanks as he lunged forward. The horses ran neck and neck, their hooves beating into the soft ground, the wind whistling past. A few yards from the windmill Terry leaned far over her horse's outstretched neck, gave him a last urge in the flank. He leaped and drew rein and brought her horse to a stop. She leaned over and patted him affectionately on the neck. "Atta boy," she laughed. "You really can run!"

Raff walked his lathered pinto along side.

"It isn't fair, of course," he grinned.

"Why not?"

"Even horses fall under the spell of a beautiful woman! Old Bandido there hasn't moved that fast since he was a colt."

"Bandido! Is that his name?"

Terry asked. "That's a nice name for a horse. What does it mean?"

"Outlaw," Raff said. "He used to be the best round-up horse on the place. He's too old for that now."

After their horses had cooled down a bit they started off at a walk.

"Where are we going?" Terry asked.

"To the old Vargo place," Raff said. "You've never been there."

Ramon Vargo used to work for Brooks' father. When he got old he suffered from delusions of grandeur. The senior Kimberly thought a lot of him. Retired him on a small pension and built him this place. It's long been deserted now."

"Is that the place the peons refer to as 'Tonto Paraiso'?"

"That's right," Raff nodded. "It means fool's paradise. The old man thought that it was a great estancia. Three times the size of Windemere. Until he died he thought he was a very rich man."

"The peons have some superstitions about that place," Terry said, suddenly remembering. "Twice now little Pedro has said to me that Vargo rode last night. What do they mean by that?"

Raff threw back his head and laughed.

"They were all afraid of Vargo because he talked so crazy. Since then, when anything unpleasant happens that they can't explain, they blame it on poor old Vargo. They think that because they laughed at him when he was on earth, he comes back at night on horseback to tantalize them."

Terry pointed to a green island of trees on the far horizon.

"Is that the place over there?"

"That's it," Raff said. "It's in a cedar grove, where it's cool and shady. A perfect place to have our picnic."

A few minutes more and they rode out of the glare of the noonday sun into the thick shade of the trees. They chose a grassy spot and Raff led the horses away and tied them, while Terry took packages of sandwiches and a thermos from the saddlebag. Raff had handed down to her.

While they were eating Raff said, "These sandwiches are, what is it you say? super."

"I'll make a Yankee of you yet!" Terry laughed.

After they had finished eating they stretched out on the soft carpet of sweet smelling grass, their heads close together. Raff half turned. His hand reached out to touch Terry's arm.

"I wouldn't really make such a bad husband," he said.

Terry smiled. "On the contrary," she said. "I think you'd make a very good one."

"But not for you?"

She ruffled his blond, curly hair and looked at him a little wistfully. "I'm just not sure yet," she said. "You want me to be sure?"

"I wouldn't want you any other way," Raff said. "I promise I won't mention it again. I'll know when you're sure."

They rode on then for several hours across the flat stretches of pampas. Sometimes cantering their horses briskly through the waist-high grass, sometimes walking them slowly so they could rest. They saw a flaming sunset that sent a brilliant wash of orange, and finally a delicate shade of pink from distant Patagonia. They felt the sudden chill in the wind when the sun was gone. They saw a cold, bright moon rise in the sky. It was nine when they finally rode through the heavy darkness into the west gates of the estancia. Lights shown out from the great house, warm and welcoming.

As they stood at the door Raff put his arm around Terry's waist lightly and looked down at her face, a dull ivory oval in the shreds of moonlight.

"I'll be waiting for you," he said softly, "no matter how long it might be."

Winners in Contest Are Entertained on Tuesday

The winners in a contest between two teams made up of members of the Mail Bag Club were entertained at the roadside park at the Fairgrounds Wednesday evening.

With one exception, all of the members of the club were present when they assembled at seven o'clock. A delicious pot luck supper was furnished by members of the losing team, whose captain was Mrs. Ray Bowers.

The contest, which lasted three months, was for the saving of sales tax; and Wednesday evening Mrs. Roy Rogers received a prize for collecting the largest number of stamps. Other prizes went to Mrs. Clara Carr and to Mrs. C. B. Tillis.

Mrs. C. R. Boyd, captain of the winning team, was also awarded a prize by Mrs. Bowers.

Many millions of pounds of potatoes and grain have been lost in Holland because of the flooding of areas by the Germans, and at least $3,000,000 worth of agricultural implements have been ruined.

TIRES TOO FEW FOR CHANGING FARM VEHICLES

Servicemen on Furlough May Get Extra Gas Rations Without Trouble

Indications of a growing tendency to change wheels of farm wagons and other implements to use rubber tires instead of steel brought a suggestion from the county's Ration Board that the change not be made until it is certain rubber tires are available.

Behind the suggestion was the emphatic statement that "the tire situation is still critical."

A spokesman for the board declared in that connection that "there are not even enough tires for passenger cars" and added that many car owners have taken care of their tires with a wartime patriotism that they warranted sympathetic consideration in the matter of tire distribution. However, he continued, the outlook is not very bright yet.

The increase in A gasoline rations, although insignificant by normal peacetime standards, was viewed as putting just a little more strain on the already well-worn tires on most cars.

There has not been anything like near enough tires to meet demands since early in the war, it has been repeated many times. And, it was pointed out the board can and does approve more applications than there are tires to fill the orders.

Gas for Servicemen
Servicemen are taking advantage of the new regulations which permit them to get special gasoline while on furlough. To avoid delay and to simplify the application three suggestions were made:

1. Apply at any Ration Board.
  2. Bring along the mileage rationing record for the car to be used.
  3. Be ready to show furlough papers.
- "Furlough gasoline still will be issued at the rate of a gallon a day," it was said, "but the 30-gallon limit is being removed for the benefit of released American prisoners-of-war who get leave or temporary duty assignments for 60 days in this country, and for those members of our armed forces who return from overseas and get more than 30 days' leave."
- Servicemen on terminal leave before discharge are eligible for furlough gasoline rations at the rate of a gallon a day until the date of discharge, but the maximum of 30 gallons still applies

In these cases, A discharged servicemen who does not have an A card for his car is, of course, eligible for the book, just as civilians are.

If a veteran is looking for work and is referred by one of the appropriate government employment agencies to a specific job, he may get gasoline rations up to 400 miles a month for this purpose. A veteran who gets a job in another part of the country and who changes his residence will be issued sufficient rations to move his car and family. Like any other civilian, he then may get gasoline for occupational driving.

Special gasoline rations also will be issued for transportation of convalescent servicemen and veterans from government hospitals and recuperation centers to sports events and other recreational activities.

Applications for the special ration must be accompanied by a request from the administrative or medical head of the hospital or recuperation center. In addition, the place of entertainment generally must be within a radius of 50 miles of the hospital, which must be operated by the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard or Veterans Administration.

The ration also may include gasoline for the applicant or driver to reach the hospital from his home and return, but the mileage allowed for this purpose may not exceed 100 miles.

VETERANS WILL GET ATTENTION WITHOUT DELAY

U. S. Employment Service Is To Streamline Help To Applicants

An expanded job placement service for veterans was announced today by Ward C. Miller, manager of the Washington C. H., office of the United States Employment Service.

With specially trained personnel and a streamlined procedure, the WMC's United States Employment Service plans to give quicker service to the returning veteran. From the time the veteran enters a USES office he will be given special attention. Stepped-up procedure in the reception, interviewing, job counseling and referral of veterans will be set up in the USES office, in order to give the returning veteran the best possible service.

"We believe we can give the veteran better service by handling veterans' placement through our regular office with these new special services," Miller said. "We are stepping up our veterans' placement activities and cutting down the time which a veteran spends in the USES office. Miller also stated:

"We have a veterans' employment representative who is charged with this responsibility. We will be prepared to advise veterans of job opportunities in various fields. We are arranging for special signs to identify the veterans' service and we will assign as many individuals as necessary to the work of interviewing and referring veterans to jobs. Our veterans' employment representative, too, will assist in promoting the interest of veterans in the community and we will work with employers to develop job orders for veterans.

"The first principle of the USES is to refer the best qualified men on employers' orders. The second principle is this: If veterans are not placed because we do not have suitable orders, the USES responsibility is to develop job openings. In this we seek the cooperation of all employers."

Veterans' placements in Washington C. H., during the first five months of this year totaled 64. Veteran placements for all of last year were 112 and for the year before 50.

MORE TO BICYCLING THAN JUST BALANCE

Lights After Dark, License Is Required in City

Maybe you think all there is to owning a bicycle is just getting on and riding it. But there are a few regulations cyclists are asked to observe here in Washington C. H. They were set up in a city ordinance passed in October, 1936. One is that a bicycle license be purchased for each ownership of a bicycle. The license cost 35 cents and can be purchased at the city auditor's office. Since Miss Vera Veal has been auditor 1,986 have been sold.

The speed limit for bicycle riding is eight miles an hour within the city limits. If you are addicted to riding after dark, there should be a light or lantern on the bicycle bright enough to indicate its approach. Riding on the sidewalks also is taboo.

There is a fine which can be imposed for violation of the ordinance, but, Walter Stambaugh, city manager, said, "we're not interested in collecting fines but we are interested in the safety of bicycle riders."

VET ADMINISTRATION NEEDS WORKERS NOW

Representative Will Be at USES Office Here

Washington C. H. girls with a yen for travel and government work will have a chance to apply for positions with the Veterans' Administration Friday and Saturday.

John E. Orr, Veterans' Administration representative who is working with the Civil Service Commission, will be at the USES office here on those days to interview applicants.

"Stenographers, typists and clerks are needed urgently to work at the Veterans' Administration in Washington D. C.," Orr said. Not only is this an opportunity to be of service to ex-servicemen and women but it is a chance to get a postwar job, Orr pointed out.

All appointees will be given an orientation period at the Veterans' Administration office in Chillicothe. Travel to Washington is at government expense and salaries range from $1752 to $1971 annually, including overtime, Orr said.

High school graduates who already have taken civil service examinations will interest Orr especially, he said.

RURAL CAMP IS SET FOR JULY 21

Fayette Countians Can Go for Three Day Period

Fayette County farm women will have a chance to relax for three days at Camp Clifton, the place where their 4-H club sons and daughters go to camp.

Miss Margaret Watson, home demonstration agent here, said plans have been completed for a district rural women's camp from July 21 to 24. Women in Clark, Champaign, Clinton, Shelby, Greene, Miami and Union counties also are eligible to attend the camp.

Reservations will close July 14 but up until that time, women may call Miss Watson at 2558 to tell her they will be at the camp. Crafts, vespers, campfires—all the traditional camping activities are scheduled for those three days. The first meal will be Saturday night and the last will be served Tuesday noon, Miss Watson said.

Tired Kidneys Often Bring Sleepless Nights

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent urination, sometimes with burning, is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Dodgers Stretch N. L. Lead And Yankees Reach Tigers

By JOE REICHLER
(By The Associated Press)

Detroit has dropped out of complete dominance of the American League and is tied today with New York's Yankees for first place, all because they met up once again with Washington's Dutch Leonard, the hurler who cost them the pennant last year.

Facing the Tigers for the first time since he outpitched Dizzy Trout on the final day of the 1944 pennant race to cause Detroit to finish one game behind the pennant winning St. Louis Browns, Leonard maintained his pitching wizardry over the Bengals in a twilight game yesterday, by spinning a near four-hitter to triumph 9-1.

The Tigers' downfall, plus the Yankees' 7-2 victory over the Browns, brought the league leadership into a tie.

Floyd (Bill) Bevens registered his seventh victory against two defeats as he held the Browns to six hits in pitching the Yankees to their seventh straight triumph and their second straight over the American League champions.

With Luis Olmo, the league's leading RBI man driving in the winning run in the ninth, the fast stepping Brooklyn Dodgers increased their National League lead over the second place St. Louis Cardinals to four full games by shading the Chicago Cubs 6-5. Olmo scored Goodie Rosen with a two-out single in the last half of the final frame.

New York's Giants swept past Pittsburgh into third place by annexing a twin bill from the Pirates 10-4 and 3-2 to inaugurate their second home stand against the west Little Georgia Hausman, who amassed seven hits in two games, doubled in the tying and winning runs with two out in the ninth inning of the nightcap.

Russ Christopher hit his third loss against 11 victories in dumping

—Spying— On Sports

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, June 28—(AP)—When the ring's "ferocious gentleman" Freddie (Red) Cochrane well, he says he's not a bum—was telling off the boxing writers the other day, he insisted that he was the only boxer who ever had beaten two world champions in successive bouts.

Freddie would have to go back only three years for his victories over Fritz Zivic and Lew Jenkins to find when Henry Armstrong took the welterweight title from Barney Ross—on May 31, 1938—and in his next start—Aug. 17—whipped Lou Ambers for the lightweight crown.

The Tulsa, Okla., claim of having the biggest junior baseball program per capita in the nation doesn't stand up when the figures from Butte, Mont., come in.

Butte (pop. 40,000) has 30 teams in three divisions, exclusive of an American Legion Junior Club, as compared to 22 teams for Tulsa's 193,363 inhabitants.

Butte citizens contributed $2,700 toward equipment and upkeep for the circuit.

Guardsmen Swamped by Sheidlerites

Sheidler's Insurance softballers waltzed through a 16-0 shut-out over the Company D team in Wednesday night's Rotary league game.

Not satisfied with piling up a more than comfortable score, the Sheidler boys allowed no hits for anyone on the military team.

Steel, Sheidler first baseman, accounted for four runs.

The Craig Brothers junior combination jumped into a 16 run lead in the first inning of their tilt with the Moore Auto team.

The Craig boys wound up the game with a 23-12 victory.

Games set for Thursday are Methodist vs. Troop 64 and Wilson's vs. American Legion.

Jenkins, Badgley and Burden were the umpires.

Outdoor Paradise In Eastern Ohio Hope for Future

NEW PHILADELPHIA, June 28—(AP)—Bryce C. Browning, executive secretary of the Muskingum Conservancy District, foresees a postwar fishermen's and campers' paradise in the eastern Ohio district.

"Given only the chance to go ahead, the area will offer almost unlimited facilities to the public," Browning said, adding that the 60,000 acres awaited the release of manpower and materials to expand the existing flood control and recreation program.

More than a million and a half vacationists visited the region last year, although a skeleton staff had only started the development of private cottage sites, fishing and hunting facilities in the 14-dam flood control system.

Browning reported that picnic and playground areas, public cabins and special sites for clubs and cooperatives were included in postwar plans for the district, first organized in 1933 primarily for flood control. He said more fish per acre were taken from 1,000-acre Leesville Lake than from any other body of public water in the state.

Johnny Lorms Paces Bucks to NCAA Golf Win

By HAROLD HARRISON

COLUMBUS, June 28—(AP)—

Somewhere in his school books Johnny Lorms of Ohio State must have read and become convinced that the shortest distance between two points is a straight line.

Certainly he operated on that theory yesterday as he hammered out a 4 and 3 victory over Johnny Jenswold of Michigan to win the 1945 National Intercollegiate golf championship.

He was "down the middle Johnny" virtually all the way in his triumph over Jenswold, a 22-year-old naval trainee from Duluth, Minn., who for two years in a row was about to step into the throne room. Last year Jenswold was beaten by Louis Lick of Minnesota in the final match.

By his victory, Lorms, son of Charlie Lorms, Columbus golf professional, and a brand new graduate from Ohio State's dental college, gave the Bucks a clean sweep of the NCAA title honors. They previously had won the team championship and the qualifying medal.

CARRIER 'BUNKER HILL' SURVIVES DIRECT HITS BY TWO SUICIDE PLANES

A. Seitz, 618 "A" Ave., Coronado, Calif., the Bunker Hill's skipper, decided on the maneuver that meant the difference between life and death for his ship.

The destroyers were ordered to stand clear. With the cruiser Wilkes Barre keeping her bow head against the stricken ship's starboard quarter, the listing carrier went into a wide, sweeping 70-degree turn.

Gradually at first, and then with a roar, tons of water and burning gasoline and oil on the hangar deck sloshed away from the fire fighters and poured over the edge of the deck into the sea.

With renewed heart, firefighters resumed their task, and more than four hours after the suicide planes' attack, the fire was under control. Out of danger, the ship was able to proceed under her own power.

The ship's chaplains, Commander Abbott Peterson, Jr., Ithaca, N. Y., and Lt. Comdr. Robert E. Delaney, Tuckahoe, N. Y., led volunteers who searched the wreckage all night for those who had died. The next day 352 men were buried at sea.

EDDIE HAVENS STEALS SHOW FROM HORSES

MARION, June 28—(AP)—Eddie Havens piloted horses to first in five of the nine heats last night at the Little Grand Circuit harness races.

He handled Breezing, a bay filly from the Ridgeway stable of Greenview, Conn., in the feature race, a 20-class trot for a $1,000 purse. Breezing won all three heats.

Milbrook also of the Ridgeway Stable, took two of the three heats in the 24-pace for $500. Havens was the driver.

Britannic captured the 14-class trot, the third race. The bay gelding won $500 for its owner, the Newport Stock Farm of Plainfield, N. J.

will receive $12,000,000,000 a year on the basis of tax duplicates as in the past six years, and an additional $4,000,000 according to population.

The senate completed passage of a bill directing the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society to accept as a gift to the state the Greene Village Treaty Memorial Park in Greenville, and legislation to unify county services to dependent children.

Sen. Carl D. Sheppard (R-Summit) explained that an agency would be established in each county for care of dependent children under its provisions. He said 15 counties now have no such agency except the probate judge who acts also as juvenile judge.

The state board of liquor control would be authorized to require a maximum deposit of 60 cents a case on beer bottles or other returnable containers under a bill by Sen. Fred G. Reiners (R-Hamilton) which the senate passed and sent to the house.

Passed and sent to the governor for signing was a house-approved bill specifying vacations of two calendar weeks for all state employees, including those paid on an hourly basis who now have no vacation grants.

The Seining of fish in the Portage River, which now is permitted from Lake Erie to Oak Harbor, would be restricted to the section between the lake and confluence of the Little Portage River with Portage River under a house-approved bill passed by the senate. It also changed the limit on carp from 15 inches to 18 inches.

The house added its approval to a senate bill excusing from responsibility bartenders and state liquor store salesman selling liquor to a minor who has submitted a written statement and other evidence that he is of legal age.

The house killed a senate bill which specified a $300 fine and 30 days in jail for violating building regulations in unincorporated communities.

Other developments in the House:

Completed enactment of legislation streamlining the mental health law and changing the name of the Division of Mental Diseases to the Division of Mental Hygiene.

Agreed to a compromise measure making the state highway department responsible for maintenance of "freeways" through municipalities (senate concurrence yet required), and Completed passage of a bill authorizing schools to conduct special classes for physically and mentally handicapped children.

An emergency clause inserted by the Ohio senate finance committee in the "additions and betterments" bill for capital improvements by the state provides that

The Pan-a-min Plan calls for good hens, good feed and care, and Pan-a-min. Its goal is more efficient egg production.

Pan-a-min is the key in this plan because it supplies tonics that help the bird make better use of feed and supplies minerals essential in egg production. Pan-a-min Plan birds on the Research Farm lay as many as 23 more eggs per bird per year.

We believe the Pan-a-min Plan can help you step up the egg efficiency of your hens. We can supply the Pan-a-min.

$1,190,000 for buildings and equipment to care for tubercular insane patients at Mount Vernon Sanatorium will be available immediately upon enactment of the measure.

The bill which comes up for action today in the senate calls for expenditures of $74,929,000 for buildings and lands, an increase of nearly $1,700,000 in the total approved previously by the house.

The difference is expected to be reconciled before the legislators quit work this session.

Sen. Albert L. Daniels (R-Highland), chairman of the senate finance committee which recommended the bill for passage last night, said the emergency was attached to the sanatorium fund because construction plans already have been completed and War Production Board authorization to go ahead received.

Other funds will become available 90 days after enactment.

The committee deleted $5,000,000 for a new state penitentiary and $1,000,000 in country road funds, leaving $1,200,000 for the latter purpose. Inserted were sufficient items for a net increase of nearly $1,700,000.

The added items included: $500,000 each for new dormitories at five state universities and $200,000 for the same purpose at Wilberforce University; $476,000 each for two new receiving hospitals to be located in northeastern and northwestern Ohio; $500,000 for state fair buildings with the provision the money not be spent until a fairgrounds is selected.

An additional $1,450,000 called for purchase of land for state parks, the total including $300,000 for Hueston Woods in Butler and Peebles counties, $300,000 for Oak Openings in Lucas, Fulton and Henry counties, $200,000 for Athens state forest, $100,000 for Hocking forest, $100,000 for a lake at Shade River Park in Meigs county, $10,000 for Cedar Swamp near Springfield, $4,000 for a park at Van Wert, $65,000 for Portage Lake improvements, and $145,000 for cabins at state parks.

A total of $830,000 was included for Longview State Hospital in Cincinnati, another $200,000 was provided for flood control work on Mill Creek in cooperation with the federal government, and an additional $100,000 for improvements to East Harbor on Lake Erie to bring that total to $3,000,000.

COUNCIL VIEWS INITIAL PLAT FOR ADDITION

Old Fair Grounds Will Be Converted Into at Least 44 Lots

H. H. Denton, owner of the old Fair Grounds tract, and Attorney Otis B. Core, who represents Denton, appeared before City Council, Wednesday night with tentative plans for the new addition which promises to be one of the best ever added to the city, and council generally was well pleased with the tentative plan.

There are 13.49 acres in the tract, and the plat shows that it has been tentatively divided into 44 large lots, with an "S" shaped street passing through from a point near the intersection of Lewis Street with Columbus Avenue, and Yeoman Street, immediately east of the school building, with an attractive court 100 feet in diameter, to beautify the central area of the new street on the south side.

Plans call for widening Columbus Avenue some 16½ feet with a service drive in front of some of the properties facing that avenue, and a grass plot between the service drive and sidewalk.

A shopping center is included in the plans, to front on Columbus Avenue next to the school grounds, with drive encircling the commercial center, and parking space for several dozens of automobiles.

A 17 foot alley borders the Avondale Addition on the east.

The two men called attention to the huge sewer that passes through the tract at a depth of 16 feet, providing ample drainage facilities for the tract.

It was stated that certain restrictions will be provided to insure the new addition being a high class residential part of the city, and that formal plans and specifications for the addition will be presented at a later date.

The Federal Housing Administration has been working with Denton and Core in connection with the proposed new addition.

A. E. Weatherly, superintendent of the Dayton Power and Light Company in this district, addressed council concerning method of paying street lighting assessments, and Solicitor John B. Hill will pass on the matter in the near future.

Mother of Four Children Is Summoned

As a result of a diphtheria outbreak in the Frankfort community, Mrs. Mabel Mossbarger Wayland, wife of Frank Wayland, of near Frankfort, mother of four children, is dead, and several other persons are under quarantine. Origin of the disease has not been traced.

Robert Wayland, 5, a son, has the disease, and Mrs. Juanita Robinson, 23, of Austin, is under quarantine, while her son, Paul, 4, is seriously ill with the disease.

Private funeral services for Mrs. Wayland were held Thursday afternoon and burial made at Frankfort.

FUNERAL SATURDAY FOR MRS. JACK CARLE

Funeral services for Mrs. Jack Carle have been changed from 2 P. M. Friday until 2 P. M. Saturday, so that her grandson who is in the armed forces, can attend. The services will be at McNair Presbyterian Church.

GREENE PROSECUTOR WILL FILE CHARGES

XENIA June 28 (Spl) Greene County Prosecutor Marcus Shoup has announced that charges will be filed against operators of four Greene county establishments where slot machines were confiscated by special investigators named by Shoup.

Shoup said all such machines found in the county will be confiscated and destroyed.

THOSE $5 TAX STAMPS MUST BE ON CAR SUNDAY

Between 2,000 and 3,000 In County Are Still Without Stamps

Thomas A. Gallagher, Collector of Internal Revenue in this district, calls attention to the fact that after July 1 all automobiles in use must bear the new Federal use stamp, the cost of which is $5.

These stamps are on sale at the revenue office, all Post Offices and, for auto club members, at the Fayette County Auto Club Office. Such stamps must be on all motor boats, also.

Last year up to this date the Post Office here had sold 1,000 of the stamps, and W. E. Passmore, Postmaster, said Wednesday that the number sold so far this year was 980.

Last year the total sold at the local Post Office reached 4,200.

In his statement today Gallagher says:

"An appeal is made to the public not to wait until the last minute to make this purchase as this creates a difficulty not only for the clerks issuing the stamps but also for the stamp buyers."

"There seems to be an impression that the law providing for the purchase of these stamps has been repealed, particularly in view of the fact that some bills to this effect have been introduced in Congress. None of these bills has been enacted into law and the stamps must be purchased, and in the case of automobiles put on the lower right hand part of the windshield."

"The penalty for driving without the stamp is $25.00 and the same penalty applies for failure to display the stamp even though one has been purchased."

FUNERAL SERVICES FOR THOMAS GROFF

Friends and relatives gathered at the John Groff home on the West Road east of Bloomingburg Wednesday afternoon to pay their last respects to Thomas Groff when funeral services were held for him there.

Rev. John Glenn, who conducted the services, read from the Scriptures, offered prayer, delivered the memorial sermon and read "Lead Kindly Light" and "Crossing the Bar."

The flowers, which banked the casket as mute evidence of Thomas Groff's place among the people of the community, were arranged by Mrs. Elton Elliott, Mrs. Mae Allemang, Mrs. Gertrude Smith, Mrs. Verne Sheley, Mrs. Olive Swope, Mrs. Doris Bitzer, Mrs. Verne Foster and Mrs. Sue Garring.

Burial was in the Bloomingburg Cemetery with John Sagar, Sr. and his two sons, John, Jr., and Gene, David Ogan, Maynard Icenhower and Madison Swope as the pallbearers.

The production of paper in Canada dates to 1803.

WAR BOND DRIVE IS EXTENDED TO JULY 7, REPORT

$203,362 Left on individual Bond Goal; Letters Mailed To Workers

Fayette County was $203,362.50 from its individual bond sales quota Thursday as the drive was extended to July 7.

Despite the yet-to-go figure in individual sales, the grand total of bond sales credited here is $911,524, the Federal reserve report as of Tuesday showed.

Letters mailed to War Bond workers her Wednesday said in part "During these last ten days of the Seventh War Loan let us contact everyone we have missed and see some of them a second or third time. It is possible to make our quota through a little extra effort by all our 200 workers."

"Every dollar we spend now limits the opportunity our returning boys will have to invest their small savings. If we save now we not only prevent further inflation but it will enable us to spend after they come home and keep them employed."

The standings of the wards and townships today are: Ward One, $26,675; Ward Two, $30,848.55; Ward Three, $31,163.25; Ward Four, $28,700; Concord Township, $10,609.75; Green Township, $2,562.50; Jasper Township, $17,887.25; Jefferson Township, $16,200; Marion Township, $3,600; Madison Township, $16,150; Paint Township, $16,500; Perry Township, $15,138.50; Union Township, $20,120.

DRAFT BOARD MOVES INTO NEW OFFICES

The Selective Service Board headquarters will move Saturday to offices above the Morris Store at 115½ East Court Street. The office has been in a room above Liscandro's Market since selective service legislation was passed in 1940. The move Saturday will be the first one.

It was emphasized that the stairs to the new office lead up from a door which is just inside the entrance and behind one of the Morris Store show windows. The new office will be in three rooms instead of the one large one used formerly.

Miss Lorie Robinson and Mrs. Homer Scott will continue to clerk in the office.

EVERY PLY OF EVERY RIVERSIDE IS

12% STRONGER!

THAT'S WHY WE SAY...

More MILES-OF- SAFETY ON RIVERSIDES!

Today... Riversides are even stronger... 12% stronger than our pre-war Riversides! Every ply is stronger because each cord is stronger to begin with; then chemically strengthened to make it stay stronger longer! Next, the cords are immersed in a "bonding" solution which "welds" them together. They are then imbedded between two layers of rubber! THE RESULT—A Riverside PLY of strength... built-in strength that insures MORE MILES-OF- SAFETY!

"SPIKE TEST" proves RIVERSIDES' 12% stronger plies give greater blowout protection.

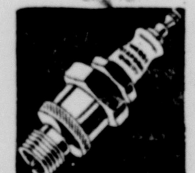

In this test a big steel spike is shot into the tire like a projectile! Yet, no blowout, not the slightest damage!
